Commissioner's Corner

by Commissioner Bobby Cagle

Recently, I had the honor of participating in a national webinar on Pre-K and early childhood education hosted by the Education Writers Association (EWA). Reporters from across the country had questions about Georgia's universal, lottery-funded Pre-K program.

As DECAL Commissioner, it is always a pleasure to talk about Georgia's Pre-K Program, recognized as one of the top state programs in the nation based on quality standards, teacher qualifications and enrollment. As we begin our 21st year serving approximately 84,000 four year olds in 3,800 classrooms across the state, I could not be more proud of our accomplishments through this unique public-private partnership. About half of our classes this year will be housed in public schools, the other half in private settings including child care learning centers, Head Start programs, charter schools, military bases, universities and technical colleges.

Since 1995, Georgia's Pre-K Program has been accessible to any four-year-old resident of Georgia regardless of family income. However, almost 60% of our students receive other social services.

Georgia's Pre-K classes in the 2013-2014 school year start between late July and the week following Labor Day. Last year, 66% of all four year olds in Georgia were served by state Pre-K and Head Start, with a statewide Pre-K enrollment of nearly 83,000.

Please join me in thanking Governor Deal and state legislators who have restored the Pre-K school year to 180 days in the 2013-2014 school year. As the availability of lottery revenues becomes clearer, additional strategic decisions will be made concerning future investments in Georgia's Pre-K Program.

I recognize that the Pre-K program has room for improvement, especially in the areas of teacher salaries, class size (now with teacher-student ratios of 1:11), and family engagement and support. I assure you that these concerns will be priorities as we work this year with legislators, providers, parents and child care advocates.

This is an exciting time for our Pre-K students, as they begin their formal educational journeys on the strong foundation of Georgia's Pre-K Program - a journey that will hopefully stay on course through high school and on to college or careers. To our providers, teachers, parents, DECAL staff and especially those four year olds, I offer my best wishes for a very successful year.

If I can ever be of service to you, contact me at 404-651-7432 or bobby.cagle@dec.al.gov.

Braves Tickets Going to Path2College 529 Plan Contest Winner

Our friends at the Path2College 529 Plan want to send a Georgia child care program to an Atlanta Braves game in September! Formerly known as the Georgia Higher Education Savings Plan (GHESP), the Path2College helps families prepare for the future costs of college tuition and other qualified expenses, such as fees, books, and certain room and board costs for colleges in Georgia and nationwide.

To be included in the drawing for the Braves tickets, child care programs can simply request brochures for their facilities or host a presentation at their centers. The drawing will be held the first week in September. The winner will receive four free tickets to the Saturday, September 14, 2013, game between the Atlanta Braves and the San Diego Padres.

For more information and to enter the contest, email Path2College@gsfc.org with subject line Atlanta Braves. Good luck and GO BRAVES!

DECAL Participates in "Speak Your Mind Monday"

DECAL was proud to participate in a "Speak Your Mind Monday" event with State Representative Valenica Stovall (D-74) held July 22, 2013, at Clayton State University. Rep. Stovall's district includes the cities of Morrow, Lake City, Forest Park, Riverdale, and College Park, all located in Clayton County.

DECAL presented its departmental priorities along with updates from Child Care Services, Quality Initiatives, Georgia's Pre-K Program for Georgia's Pre-K Program. "This is a big step, and we are excited to provide so many children with their first school experience."

Susan Adams

Adams offers families the following tips to help their child's first day in Pre-K go smoother and be less stressful:

- Send your child to school in clothes she or he can manage independently in the bathroom: No overalls.
- Make sure your child's shoes are comfortable for playtime. Slip-on shoes or shoes with Velcro fasteners are easiest for children to manage.
- Visit the classroom before school starts so your child is familiar with the new surroundings.
- Tell your child's teacher about any fears he or she may have.
- Discuss any special dietary needs or allergies your child may have with the teacher and ask the teacher to explain their program's policies around meals.
- Complete any necessary forms or releases your Pre-K provider may require for dispensing medication during the school day.
- Locate the bathroom with your child, and determine any special bathroom routines the school observes.
- Build in extra time for the first day: Make sure you have time to say good-bye.
- Determine if your child needs a blanket for rest time: Can he or she bring a favorite stuffed animal?
- Send along a family photo in your child's backpack in case she or he gets lonely.

Heatstroke Prevention Day Media Event Reminds Caregivers Not to Leave Children Unattended in Cars

Wednesday, July 31, 2013, was National Heatstroke Prevention Day. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) spearheaded a social media awareness day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. using the hash tag #heatstroke on both Facebook and Twitter.

More than half of all vehicle-related heatstroke deaths in children are caused by a child accidentally being left in a car, and more than 30% are from a child getting into a hot car on their own. One way to remember the warnings is with the word ACT: Avoid heatstroke; Create reminders; Take action.

In May, DECAL participated with other state agencies and partner organizations in a news conference at the State Capitol reminding families and caregivers of the dangers associated with leaving children unattended in vehicles. DECAL joined these agencies to express our concerns and demonstrate how fast temperatures rise inside a closed vehicle, especially here in Georgia.

Two recent news conferences on the importance of transportation and not leaving children unattended in vehicles are posted on our DECAL website.

Governor Deal Recognizes Georgia's first Quality Rated Child Care Programs

On Tuesday, July 16, Governor Nathan Deal held a news conference at the state Capitol recognizing Georgia's first Quality Rated child care programs. Similar to other service industries like restaurants and hotels, Quality Rated uses one, two and three stars to indicate programs that meet a set of standards exceeding the state's minimum licensing requirements. First Lady Sandra Deal and DECAL Commissioner Bobby Cagle also spoke at the event highlighting Deal's vision for improving early education.

"I believe education offers one of the premier ways of attracting businesses, retaining businesses and watching them and the Georgia economy thrive," said Governor Deal. "As much as Quality Rated will benefit Georgia and our economy, it also sets our state's children up for success - and that is equally as important. By giving parents a way to distinguish between low-quality child care and great child care, we can ensure our youngest learners receive a jump start on life."

Ratings are posted for public inspection at www.qualityrated.org and the DECAL web site www.decals.ga.gov. Nearly 1,300 child care programs are participating in Quality Rated, with approximately 230 programs now rated.
