“The goal of Georgia’s Pre-K Program is to help ensure Georgia’s four year olds are prepared academically and socially as they continue formal education,” said DECAL Commissioner Amy M. Jacobs. “We created the Summer Transition Program (STP) to support students who did not attend Georgia Pre-K or Head Start or who need additional help before entering kindergarten.”

Jacobs said this year there are 72 Rising Pre-K classes and 315 Rising Kindergarten classes located across Georgia. Summer 2022 is the twelfth year DECAL has offered the STP. According to independent researchers who have evaluated the STP, the program has significantly impacted the children served, especially in their crucial language and literacy skills.

“The Summer Transition Program is a wonderful opportunity for students who weren’t able to benefit from Pre-K or Head Start to build their skills and confidence before moving into kindergarten,” added Susan Adams, Deputy Commissioner for Georgia’s Pre-K Program and Instructional Supports. “The program is also an opportunity to help mitigate the impact of the pandemic by providing an in-person school experience prior to kindergarten. In 2021, additional classrooms were offered to help prepare over 4,000 students for kindergarten, which was a 110% increase from the Summer of 2020.”
