The InvestiGator Club® Inquiry-Based Learning System activates children's prior knowledge to build background and make meaningful connections to new learning. The research-based program balances child-centered learning with intentional teaching. Investigations integrate developmentally appropriate experiences across a scope and sequence of ten key learning domains, including literacy, oral language, math, science, and social-emotional development. Instruction is spiraling and scaffolded. The included Dilly's Tree House™ Family Engagement Program develops strong and consistent connections between school, home, and community.
