Our Pre-K class has been collecting a "million miles" by gathering postcards, photos and brochures from places that we have visited. We have enlisted the help of the entire school as well as the local community since we are the only Pre-K class in the school.

As each postcard comes in, we record the place and number of miles it is away from Sharpsburg. The place also gets marked on a map of the world. The older students in the school are helping by adding up the total miles we have gathered.

We have had fun learning about lots of places around the world and trying to wrap our brains around how large a million is.
